SLEUTHS NEW CLAIMS

Capt. Erb's Friends Exerting Every Effort to Unravel Mystery

Chain of Evidence Secured Against the Two Women May Lead to Gallows.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Working on the theory that the murder of Captain Clayton Erb was not done in the heat of passion but was the result of a cold and deliberate plot on the part of his wife and sister-in-law, Philadelphia detectives today pieced together a remarkable chain of evidence against the two women—a chain of evidence which, if it holds good, may lead to the gallows.

It is certain that no effort will be made to free Mrs. Belsel from her imprisonment, and the probability is that both sisters will remain in Delaware county jail, at Media, at least until the December grand jury considers their case.

With five Philadelphia Central office men working on the case at the behest of Republican Leader Israel W. Durham, whose Secretary Erb was, every tiniest scrap of evidence that can be found is being treasured up and made to tell against the two women.

Besides the five police detectives, Robert McKinty who, a few years ago, was director of public safety of this city, is working on the case as Durham's own representative.

The detectives have taken the theory that Erb was practically beaten to death with a flower vase and a cuspidor before Mrs. Belsel began, in wild abandon, to empty a revolver into his prostrate body.

They have discovered that Mrs. Erb, for several weeks prior to the tragedy of Tuesday night at Red Gables, practiced with a revolver. She was a great horsewoman and carried a revolver in her riding boot. She used to halt her horse when riding through the woods and fire at objects along the roadside.

Once, at least, it is declared she chose a man for a mark, and the man was Austin Gavin, one of the detectives now probing the crime.

Gavin says that recently he called at Red Gables to see Captain Erb. He opened the front door of the house and rang the bell. A woman appeared at the head of the stairway and a second later a bullet came crashing toward him. Gavin dodged and the bullet buried itself in the banister leading from the third floor.

Gavin declares that Mrs. Erb apparently unconcerned, came down stairs and said:

"Pardon me. I really thought you were somebody else."

Servants at Red Gables were put through a long examination by the detectives after the finding of the cartridge box under Mrs. Erb's bureau. They were questioned concerning the use of firearms by Captain Erb.

Every man and woman employed about the Erb estate declared with positiveness that the captain never had fired a revolver in or about Red Gables. It was said, however, that Mrs. Erb was in the habit of firing her 32-calibre revolver in the house as well as outside frequently. It was a 32-calibre weapon that Mrs. Belsel used when she shot Erb.

Counsel for the sisters declare that Mrs. Erb had no share in the killing, placing all the blame upon Mrs. Belsel and relying upon a plea of insanity, and self-defense to clear the latter.

GIRL RESCUES WOMAN FROM HORRIBLE DEATH

Sixteen-Year Old Goldie Deabaugh
Tore Burning Clothing From
Mrs. J. L. Wyly Saving
Her Life.

Miss Goldie Deabaugh, a 16-year-old girl, performed an act of heroism that has seldom been equalled in asking her life to save that of another. Harry Wyly, a son of the Rev. J. L. Wyly, who resides a short distance north of Granville, placed a can filled with varnish on a hot stove and was then called away, forgetting all about the varnish. Shortly after Mrs. Wyly, noticing the can of varnish on the stove, attempted to remove it, when the can exploded and the boiling fluid was thrown over her head and face, badly burning her. Her clothes caught fire and she was enveloped from head to feet in flames, the varnish adding fuel to the fire. Notwithstanding the fact that Mrs. Wyly was almost blinded by the fire she managed to reach two large pans of water that were standing near and dashed the water over her head. Miss Deabaugh, attracted by cries of the unfortunate woman, rushed to the rescue, and with her bare hands tore the flaming clothes from the body of Mrs. Wyly, saving her from a horrible death. Miss Deabaugh had one of her hands burned to a crisp and she was otherwise burned. The act of Miss Debaugh in saving the life of Mrs. Wyly is the principal topic of conversation in the neighborhood.

MURDERED GIRL

Confided In Friends That She Feared
For Her Life—Fiance Still In Jail.

Wadsworth, O., Oct. 10.—Revelations that Ora Lee, the murdered factory girl, had confided to intimate friends that she was about to become a mother and that she had lived for days in fear of her life, renewed the interest in the search being made today by officers to find her murderer.

Guy Rator, the girl's fiance, is still in the Median jail. He steadfastly protests his innocence, and friends are trying to prove an alibi for him. No charge has yet been made against Rator.

SHOE WORKERS GO ON STRIKE

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 10.—The worst fears of those who hoped for an early settlement of the lasters' strike, which has thrown 20,000 Lynn shoe makers out of employment, was realized this afternoon when Joseph Gaunt, head of the factory where the trouble originated, issued a statement that after conferring with other manufacturers he refused absolutely to submit questions at issue to arbitration and could fight to the bitter end. There is no little doubt but that the whole Lynn shoe industry will be tied up.

WHARTON NEARLY DESTROYED.

Upper Sandusky, O., Oct. 10.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, nearly wiped out the town of Wharton early today. The fire was finally extinguished by aid of the Carey fire department with a $10,000 loss.

WANT WAR DECLARED

Threaten to Tear City to Pieces Unless Action is Taken

Gravest Fears are Entertained in London Diplomatic Circles—
Delay May Settle Tangle.

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—Servia has today the sole alternation of war against Austria or civil war. Great throngs of infuriated people are now surrounding the parliament building, king's palace and public buildings, threatening to tear the city to pieces unless war is declared against Austria. Reported attacks have been made against the Austrian legation.

London, Oct. 10.—The gravest fear in London diplomatic circles today is that Servia will precipitate war before the other powers have time to straighten out the Balkan tangle. If Servia will delay but a few days it is believed here that England, France and Russia can effect a peaceful settlement. If Servian hostilities carry the day the foreign office will not predict the outcome other than to say that it will invite obliteration of the Servian empire.

The admiralty announced today that it would soon have twelve English warships in the Aegean sea. Their dispatch is for the purpose of preventing allegiance of Crete to Greece.

MARSHLANDS

Over 100 Head of Cattle Have

Norwalk, Ohio, Oct. 10.—More than 1500 acres of marshland in the southwestern part of Huron county is a smoldering bed of fire, which only continued rains can extinguish. The fire has burned deep into the earth, undermining the ground in such a way as to make it dangerous. Already more than 100 head of cattle have been lost, and lives have been endangered by the ground caving in over the underground ovens.

TAXICAB STRIKERS

ARE GOING BACK TO WORK AND
SERVICE HAS BEEN RESUMED IN NEW YORK.

Company Scored By Magistrate for Hiring Ruffians to Act As
"Special Officers."

New York, Oct. 10.—The New York Taxicab Co., against which its chauffeurs have been waging a strike, resumed its regular service today with a force composed of about an even number of strike breakers and returned strikers. It is believed that the strike is nearly broken.

Magistrate Steinert, before whom the two "special officers" of the company charged with having caused the death of 14-year-old Robert Quail, were arraigned, scored the Taxicab company for hiring such men and the police department for permitting them to carry weapons.

"It is an outrage," he said in court, "that such men should be allowed to carry weapons by Commissioner Bingham. These so-called special officers are usually ruffians out of work who would take a life for two dollars."

Trustees of First M. E. Church Take Action To That End—New Edifice Will Probably Cost
$75,000.

At the last regular official meeting of the Board of Trustees of the First M. E. church of this city, the question of going ahead with a new church building project was thoroughly discussed. It was unanimously decided to have Bishop David Moore of Cincinnati, will come here Sunday, Dec. 6, and float a subscription to that end. It will be remembered that a fine site was recently purchased by this congregation, the committee having selected the Fulton corner at Fifth and Locust streets, one of the best locations available. On Thursday the Woman's Guild of the church held a regular meeting with about 250 women present, and the church question was taken up by them and they decided to raise $10,000 to assist in the project.

It is generally believed that an edifice will be erected that will cost about $75,000, also a parsonage will be erected at the same time.

Rev. Mr. Sparks, the pastor, who has done so much to build up a strong membership and congregation, seems to be the very one to start as well as to conclude this splendid undertaking for the good of the church and the city.

There will soon be a meeting of the Quarterly Conference of this church and more definite plans will be consummated.

Man and Woman, Expensively Dressed, Have Life Choked Out by the Strangling Waters.

New York, Oct. 10.—Bound face to face with rope and with the bodies of a man and woman, both expensively clad, were found today floating on the waters of Jamaica Bay, and Brooklyn police are investigating what promises to be a deep mystery. Murder or suicide, that is the question. Did an enemy win the rope about the couple which held them close while strangling waters closed out their life, or did they, seeking oblivion deliberately choose to die together rather than live apart? The woman was a blonde, about 30. On her finger was a wedding ring. In the man's pocket was a handsome gold watch.

New York, Oct. 10.—Denouncing the New York Stock Exchange as a gigantic vampire, which sucks out the life blood of the country's toilers; declaring it a gambling den, pure and simple, and advocating the abolition of speculative trading stocks and of ticker, E. F. Buchanan, organizer and manager of the defunct firm of A. O. Brown & Co., today gave out and interview unparalleled in the annals of the street. Buchanan says that "wash sales," the campaign of which drove his firm from the stock exchange, is being duplicated every day by firms and brokers of good standing. Buchanan asserts that every panic in recent years has been engineered from Wall Street.

Candidate Kern Priming for Attack to be Made in N. Y.

Claimed That President Roosevelt
Utilizes the Public Service for Partisan Ends.

New York, Oct. 10.—Another attack on President Roosevelt is in preparation by the Democratic National committee, and may be sprung by Vice Presidential Candidate Kern when he comes to New York next week.

It will take the form of a denunciation of the President for prostituting the dignity of his high office by active participation in the political campaign and utilizing the public service for partisan ends. Among the charges are the following:

"Summoning party leaders and managers for conferences at the White House, where he assumed direct control over the campaign.

Giving them orders and directions about the raising of funds.

Permitting government officials to participate actively and openly in political work.

Holding open places for appointive officeholders who have resigned temporarily to run for elective offices. If unsuccessful, at the polls they will be reinstated in their old places.

In connection with this latter charge there are cited the cases of two United States District Attorneys, Byrne of Delaware, and Lewis of Virginia, who were candidates at recent elections.

They resigned but their places were held for them so that after defeat they were again appointed to their old posts.

Attention will be called to the case of Hamilton Fish, assistant treasurer of New York City, who has resigned to run for congress, and to that of Internal Revenue Collector W. E. Glasscock, who is running for governor of West Virginia.

The Democrats assert that promise has been made to these men that their old positions either will be left unfilled or temporarily occupied, so that in case of defeat at election they can return.

Motor Park Way, New York, Oct. 10.—Herbert Lyttle, driving an Isotta, captured the $1000 purse in the Motor Park Way sweepstakes today. His time for the full distance of 23.16 miles was three hours 30 minutes and 10 seconds, and average of about 65 miles an hour. Better time was expected, but the road was filled with cars and Lyttle's time is considered remarkable.

CIGAR STUMP WAS RESPONSIBLE

Dallas, S. D., Oct. 10.—After being in danger all night from prairie fires, Dallas was saved from possible destruction early today by a sudden sweeping of the wind. The fire is now being swept toward the Nebraska line by a strong wind. The fire started north of Dallas by one of the thousands of cigar smokers.

New York Gossip of Fads, Fancies and Dress

(By Sarah Barwick Walker)

New York, Oct. 9—Have you any place to dine next Wednesday? asks the jaunty young man in a sketch of the week at Hammersteins, and when the lady coyly admits that she has none, he unkindly adds, "My, won't you be hungry Thursday?" And this seems to be pretty much the New York sense of it. To eat at any and all times—and between times—is so generally the custom here, that many people are hungry Thursday, if they do not dine out on Wednesday.

Whether it is that they are hungry for the Great White Way, where the lights are burning; where the Band is playing and life is at high tide, or whether they are impelled by an actual, sordid hunger, begotten of kitchenette methods at home, is a nice question which the limitations of this letter will not permit discussed. Certain it is that the New York boniface knows his business. He either knows it, or closes it very shortly.

The roof-garden season is over, but people still wander just as far from the domestic board. For the exceedingly fastidious, there are places where almost everything is cooked under glass. For the various artist classes there are hundreds of Bohemian places where very good, sixty cent table d'hôte dinners are served (sixty cents, with wine). For those who aspire to a certain sportiness, and to whom anything is worth only what it costs in dollars and cents, there are the places like Sherries and Rectors. For the great army of the Undiscriminating, for whom any port in time of storm will answer, there are hundreds and hundreds of eating houses—and when you go from one to another, as I am told people sometimes do, you might naturally suppose that nobody in the world dined at home.

So it is when you see the elevated, subway and surface cars loaded to the guards every morning, you feel reasonably certain that not a mortal soul is left in Harlem or the Bronx, to mind the baby, or to take in the ice and milk off the dumb waiter. Yet a morning visit to either of these districts does not disclose a deserted village. Busy market places, instead, and crowded thoroughfares and congested traffic, and then you wonder when all the people come back in the evening, who have gone down in the morning, where they will find place for themselves. And then, if you come down—down as far as Greenwich village or Carmine, you find yourself still in another world. The world of Greenwich village, and particularly of its offsprings, world of fruit and nut and petal cages; a world of showy, entrapped maidens, stately and good natured, or stately and all temperate depending largely upon the hour. A world that is traversed only by hansom cabs and trucks, and sometimes by the truck of a very humble, some of these drivers a man of character and determination. I have seen the truck of a man of character and determination. I have seen the truck of a man of character and determination.

I realize that I am making a hedge-podge of this letter, but if I tell all I know about New York in the first few letters, it will be a great comfort to have it out of the way, and as yet I have only been able to get the most vague of scattered impressions.

I started out with the vague notion of saying something about the street car crowds, in the gray dawn and twilight—but I seem to have gotten off the subject. The crowd that Brooklyn sends to town is the worst of all, in point of numbers and of manner too, for that matter. I suppose large city crowds have a tendency to reverse evolution, and that present day street car crowds are atavisms borrowed from certain ancestors who are hangers on the packs and fams of the Brooklyn Bridge crowd seem little lessened by the weight of traffic drawn off by the subway, which now tunnels the river and carries thousands of people back and forth.

The Hudson Tunnel, now in operation, pour in masses of humanity, and together with the crowded ferries would indicate a depopulated Jersey coast. The town suffers with a rush of blood to the head, it is a not for the thousands of apartments, hotels and suburbs, and the hundreds of homes all applied, like poultices, to its extremities, to draw back the blood to its accustomed arteries and veins, it would be even dizzier than it is.

If I were asked the type of dress seen oftener on Fifth Avenue I should say the blue serge suit—and yet I should be conscious all the time of those exceedingly smart suits in toupes and lead color. Really, between the two it is a question. With either, however, is worn a blouse of chiffon crepe de chine or net, in exactly the same shade. Small Irish crochet collar and cuffs appear on all strictly tailored coats, and many pretty falls appear above the large full Mary of Scots ruffs. Hats are mostly huge. Those which are less large (you really cannot use the word smaller in this connection) set down on the head in a way that is reminiscent of childhood's light hearted way of tying on its elders bonnets and derbies. Bandeaux are of the past. Brims mostly turn down with slight irregularities as to width. Crowns are extremely large and high—large they must be. Heavy gold and silver grapes trim some expensive models—dull black grapes appearing on a few morning hats. A wilder extravagance than ever is manifested in the matter of plumage. Long encircled white ostrich plumes look like snow storms bedeck some hats. Complimenting the picturesque styles of the season, carrying out the idea of a staff—is the new umbrella, the handle of which is so long that mild could stand off a mob at safe distance, or even stop an Eighth Avenue car, if she desired by sheer force of it.

She Likes Good Things. Mrs. Charles E. Smith of West Franklin, Maine, says: "I like good things and have adopted Dr. King's New Life Pills as our family laxative medicine, because they are good and do their work without making a fuss about it." These harmless purifiers sold at F. D. Hall's drug store 25c on the car.

Hartzler Hall.

The new High school hall or chapel is as yet without a name. Numerous names have been suggested to the Board of Education, but a selection is yet to be made. A member of the board tells The Advocate that the name Hartzler Hall has been suggested by many. Prof. J. C. "IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Newark Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak or aching; When urinary troubles set in; Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it: F. Lisey, 39 South Fourth street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I am glad to confirm the statement I made ten years ago setting forth the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. Before using this remedy I was a victim of kidney trouble and was caused much suffering from severe pains through my back. Sleeping or the least exertion caused excruciating twinges to shoot through my back and I often suffered misery. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Crayton's drug store, gave me more relief than any other remedy I had ever taken. The pains in my back disappeared, the action of my kidneys was regulated and I have since remained free from the least trace of kidney complaint. I always speak a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills whenever an opportunity presents itself."

THE DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET

The Licking County Democratic ticket is not only a superb one, but it is a winning one, because it is composed of highly capable and strictly honest men. It was not slated and nominated by a few bosses, but was chosen by the action of four thousand voters, who went to the primaries and cast their ballots.

Reports come from all over the county that the candidates for the various county offices are receiving the most cheering evidences of support, and that the voters are lining up with earnestness in their behalf.

The whole ticket is made up of men who are honest and capable and who will conduct the affairs of the respective offices with faithfulness and efficiency.

The Democratic county ticket is so deserving that the people will be serving their own interests by electing it.

THE PROPOSED ROOSEVELT DYNASTY

The Chicago Inter-Ocean, a leading Republican paper that is supporting Taft, does not approve of the Roosevelt succession, as proposed by Son-in-law Nicholas. After investigating the correctness of the published statement made by Longworth in his Rock Island, Ill., speech, the Inter-Ocean makes the following comment regarding this revelation of the Roosevelt regal ambition:

"As Mr. Longworth is President Roosevelt's son-in-law, his words are accepted usually as semi-official for the White House. This is the unfortunate feature of his utterance, in the present instance.

"The American people are not looking for a Lord Protector. Even the most ardent admirers of Mr. Roosevelt would not care to make him another Diaz.

"With some eight years of the presidency behind him next March, and with eight years of Mr. Taft before him, Mr. Roosevelt, according to his son-in-law's ideas, would be able to celebrate on March 4, 1925, nearly a quarter of a century of personal rule over this republic.

"Such a programme is one not to be announced just now, incredible and impossible as it seems. Especially is it not to be announced from the bosom of the Roosevelt family. Good politics and good taste are both lacking in such utterances.

"Aside from Mr. Longworth's assumption that Mr. Taft's terms would not constitute a substantial interregnum, which no real friend of Mr. Roosevelt would agree—such remarks on the institution of a Roosevelt dynasty are not only absolutely damnable but absolutely damaging to the Republican candidate for the Republican party."

THE STANDARD OIL BRAND IS FIXED ON ROOSEVELT HIMSELF

The Democratic candidate for president a few days before the election in 1904 charged that the Republican campaign managers had raised enormous sums of corporation money for his defeat. To this Roosevelt gave the lie, saying: "Parker's accusations against Mr. Cortelyou and against myself are monstrous. If true, they would brand us forever with infamy," etc. In the meantime the revelations have amply shown that Judge Parker spoke the truth. The latest proof was the levy of $100,000 on the Standard Oil company. If the truth were known, the bottom of all the corruption of 1904 has not been reached. A little only of the lid has been lifted. But sure then Roosevelt has harped upon other strings. He has attempted, among other things, to fasten upon the Democratic party a suspicion of illegitimate relations with the Standard Oil company. Though he has miserably failed in this, he has succeeded in fixing the brand on himself.

WELSH SINGERS DECLINE WINE

OFFERED SHERRY AT WHITE HOUSE BY ROOSEVELT, BUT REFUSED.

Waiter, Astonished, Says He Struck a Bunch of Prohibitionists—Wine Was a Special Brand.

Washington, Oct. 10.—"Get thee behind me, Satan," is what twenty-five husky Welshmen thought when offered some of President Roosevelt's sherry at the conclusion of a White House concert. What really was said was:

"No, thank you, none for me." And there is where the president stumbled a plenty in his diagnosis of human nature. Each and every member of the Mountain Ash choir of Wales, wore dead black clothes and white choker ties. Such habits are inevitably considered vaccination against an invitation to guzzle wine.

The Welshmen, who are to sing in Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities, gave a concert for the White House family. The event had slid along like a bunk of tallow on a hot soapstone.

The bad guess and its consequence came as the last words of the final chorus drifted out of an open window. A band came into the room affixing a tray containing ing twenty-five glasses of sherry. He brought the tray to his hip with inimitable adroitness and tendered a glass to the first man at the end of the line. The singer declined with thanks.

The next three men also refused. The other twenty-one had their mouths open ready to make similar announcements. The waiter likewise opened his mouth, but in astonishment. He realized that a blunder had been made. He looked like a man who has met a grape husk on a pavement. In a dazed manner he hastily plunged from the room. Dropping the tray on the table with such force as to upset seventeen glasses of wine, the waiter rushed down into the basement shouting: "I struck a bunch of prohibitionists!"

And this proved to be a fact. Every member of the choir is a total abstainer. A remarkable coincidence followed this chilly refusal of the president's sherry. The choir left for Frostburg to give a concert. It is said the wine tendered the Welshmen is a special brand laid in since Nick Longworth placed his father-in-law in the classification of czars, emperors, kings, princes and potentates, by naming him for election in 1916.

RECEPTION

Granville, Ohio, Oct. 10.—The general reception, which is an annual occurrence in Denison university, was held last evening in Doane gymnasium. The purpose of this reception is to acquaint the students, both new and old, and to acquaint them with the members of the faculty. Those in the receiving line were Mrs. Barker, Hunt, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. Hel... Hunt and Esther Crooks.

The hall was decorated with beautiful autumn leaves, and during the evening the Denison and Shepardsen Glee clubs sang the beautiful college song, "Denison."

Punch was served and an interesting and pleasant time was had by the large number present. The hours were 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

Heart Trouble Nervous Prostration

After suffering five years from nervous prostration and heart trouble Mr. Elias Hollinger, 82 years old of Beaverton, Mich., was completely cured by the great tonic-stimulant, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

"I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for the past two years. For five years previous to that time I was afflicted with heart trouble and nervous prostration. I tried doctors and many nerve remedies, but received little benefit therefrom. After taking Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for a short time all symptoms of heart trouble disappeared, and I began to get stronger. I lack a few months of being 82 years of age. I am one of the few surviving veterans of the Mexican War, and aside from a disability contracted in the army, I can say that I feel spry and nimble on my feet, and am vigorous indeed, all of which is due to the taking of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. It makes the old young. Although a strong temperance man, for many years, I heartily recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey to all afflicted, whether young or old.—ELIAS HOLLINGER, Beaverton, Mich.

A thousands of men and women, who have almost reached the century mark, tell the same story as Mr. Hollinger about what Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has done toward renewing their youth and keeping them vigorous, hale and hearty and in possession of all their faculties. As a leading doctor says, the secret of the whole thing is that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, if taken as prescribed, drives out all disease germs, invigorates the brain, enriches the blood, quickens the circulation and prevents decay and old age.

This wonderful remedy has been extolled throughout the world for what it has done for suffering humanity. The success of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in curing diseases has caused many unreliable dealers to put up substitutes and imitations with which to fool the people, claiming that their substitutes are just as good as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. Insist on the genuine. It will cure you.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold throughout the world by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped direct for $1.00 per large bottle.

If in need of advice, write Consulting Physician, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, New York, stating your case fully. Our doctors will send you advice free, together with a handsome illustrated medical booklet containing some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of the world's greatest medicine.

GHOST WILL WALK

Interesting Spiritual Manifestations By Dr. Sawyer at the Auditorium Theater.

Dr. C. M. Sawyer, the renowned medium, will conduct a series of interesting spiritualistic demonstrations at the Auditorium, under the auspices of the Religio-Psychological society. Sunday evening, and the big theater promises to contain an audience that will find many things of interest in the entertainment given by this famous demonstrator of spiritualistic phenomena. Dr. Sawyer is known all over this country as one of the most interesting mediums who has ever appeared before an audience, and his manifestations are said to be most bewildering in their conception. Unlike other mediums, Dr. Sawyer conducts all of his experiments upon a brilliantly lighted stage, and a committee from the audience is on the stage during all of his tests. He uses absolutely no trick paraphernalia, and it is said that no man has occasioned more comment in his particular line of work. Some say that he is the only legitimate successor to Mrs. Blavatsky.

Some of the phenomena which Dr. Sawyer will present at the Auditorium Sunday night will include slate writing, spirit pictures, and materialization. Questions written and retained by the audience will receive full and complete answers from the stage.

DRESS-MAKERS

The nervous strain through which dressmakers have to pass at certain seasons of the year seems almost beyond endurance, and frequently brings on nervous prostration, fainting spells, dizziness, sleeplessness and a general breaking down of the feminine system, until life seems altogether miserable.

For all overworked women there is one tried and true remedy.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Mrs. N. Y. Griffin, of Park St. Canton, N. E., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I was troubled for three years with female weakness, backache, pains in my side, and headaches. I was most miserable and discouraged, for doctors gave me no relief. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought back my health and made me feel better than ever before."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. BENEFIT

Game For G. A. R.
Won by the Masons

WAS CARNIVAL OF FUN

Elks Defeated for Third
Time by the Apron
Wearers

It was a great game, the third between the Masons and Elks, that was played Friday afternoon for the benefit of the G. A. R., and though the Masons fought on by eight runs, yet the Elks came so close to scoring, the necessary runs that the apron wearers were given a slight attack of heart disease. But they survived all shocks and won out—19 to 11. Though the weather was cold for the spectators, the players had no difficulty in keeping warm, for the running of the bases kept the sweat up to the steaming point.

Several of the "old heads" were out of the game, and watched the playing with envy, but those that were in uniform and those that played with no uniform on enjoyed the contest, as did the spectators, and that was all that was necessary. Elliott, who worked in the place of Dicker, lasted the entire game and did good work, getting the Elks down with only ten hits. Meredith was knocked from the box, as was Graesser, but Scott, who replaced them, pitched good ball and struck out nine men.

the game, and only 18 sacks were pilled during the nine inning bout. Though the sacrifice hitters did not have their eyes with them, the errors made by both sides furnished all excitement necessary, and kept the spectators, for usually every error made proved costly. Only 19 errors were made during the entire game.

The Masons counted six times in the first frame and every man in the line-up faced Meredith. The Elks came back at them with one more score in their half, but in the second, when the Elks got two runs, the Masons were blanked. The players in blue counted five times in the third, but the ones in white were held to two runs in this frame.

Both sides took a rest in the third and for a moment the fans feared they were going to see a ball game, but their hopes were short lived, for three more tallies were registered by the Masons in the fourth. The Elks were again blanked in their half of the inning, but got revenge in the sixth, for while they were scoring three times, the Masons only got one run over the rubber.

In the seventh and eighth innings the Masons counted twice to the frame. The Elks forced one run across in the seventh, but were blanked in the eighth. However, in the ninth they sent their tenth and eleven runs across, and would probably have rolled up their score a trifle but for a high fly of Kinsey's that Crider gobbled up.

While the attendance was small, yet financially the game was a success, as the ticket sale was large. The money goes to the G. A. R.'s fund that will be used next year in getting ready for the state encampment that will be held here. The score:

Why James Lee Got Well.
Everybody in Zanesville, O., knows Mrs. Mary Lee, of Rural Route 5. She writes: "My husband, James Lee, formerly believes he owes his life to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery. His lungs were so severely affected that consumption seemed inevitable, when a friend recommended New Discovery. We tried it, and his use has restored him to perfect health. Dr. King's New Discovery is the King of throat and lung remedies. For coughs and colds it has no equal. The first dose gives relief. Try it. Sold under guarantee at F. D. As we go to press, the first inning had been played, Detroit scoring one run. Chicago nothing.

3:15.—The diamond is a sea of mud and it is raining hard.
Second inning: Detroit 0, Chicago 0. Third inning: Detroit 0, Chicago 0. Fourth inning: Detroit 0, Chicago 0. Summers replaced Killian when Chicago filled the bases in the third.

FOOTBALL TODAY.
The High school football squad from Mt. Vernon and the local team are playing at Wehrle park this afternoon. The Mt. Vernon team was accompanied by over a score of rooters.

GAME CALLED OFF.
The game between the Old Homestead and the Patterson teams, scheduled for Wehrle park tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, has been called off by mutual agreement of the two managers. The teams have now disbanded for the season, but already the managers are making plans for next year, and several of the season's stars have already been "signed up."

WHEN WINTER COMES.
'Tis well to get things ready, for winter is at hand, and snow and frost will shortly lay their grip on all the land. You'll stuff up all the windows, and the cracks beneath the doors; you'll tack a tin and cover all the knot-holes in the floors; then you'll resurrect that old arm, chair you put away last spring, (thinking that a new one would replace the dear old thing) but now some Spartan Stain you buy—you know just what to do and when you're through that old arm chair will look once more like new. Spartan Stain is the greatest varnish stain on earth. Manufactured by The Mar-Otto Paint and Color Co., Marietta, Ohio. Sold by Newark Paint Co., 31 W. Church street.

NEW BOOKS

Which Have Been Donated the Past Week to the City Library.
Funds Badly Needed.

Eighty-nine works have been donated to the Public Library the past week. Twenty-five of these is a complete set of Sir Walter Scott's Works given by Miss Mary Buckingham in memory of her father; forty-five from the Woman's Civic Improvement Club. The Library is in need of many more books—the demand for good reading far exceeding the supply. Donations of money are very badly needed. Make your library a success and one of which you will be proud. Below is given a list of periodicals given by the Review Club: Harper's Monthly Magazine, Century Magazine, Country Life, Good Housekeeping, Harper's Weekly, Collier's, Weekly, St. Nicholas, Youth's Companion.

There are many more magazines to be found on the shelves at Atlantic Monthly, Saturday Evening Post, American, etc. For a list of the books and magazines to be found in the reading room. Do it now.

RAILROADED

IS PREVAILING IMPRESSION IN WASHINGTON REGARDING COL. STEWART CASE.

Examination Thought To Be Perfunctory, and Retirement on Three Quarters Pay May Be Recommended.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The prevailing impression that the case of Col. Wm. F. Stewart is being rail-roaded is being put out by the action of the retiring board in refusing to summon any of 12 witnesses whose names were submitted by that officer's counsel at yesterday's session.

Persons who have conversed privately with members of the board are convinced that their minds are already made up, and that after perfunctory examination of the civilian physician who examined Col. Stewart a few days ago, and possibly of the colonel himself, it will make a report to the secretary of war recommending his immediate retirement for life on three-quarters pay. A member of the board, explaining today the reasons for refusing to summon the army witnesses requested by Colonel Stewart, said that their testimony would bear only upon his condition in the past, whereas the board can consider only his present ability to remain in the service.

As a hair dressing, and especially for ladies of refinement, it has no equal anywhere. It has a most delightful yet delicate odor, which most hair tones have not.

It will, in one week's time, change harsh, unattractive hair into lustrous and luxuriant hair. The women who use Parisian Sage never fail to add wonderfully to their attractiveness.

"I have used and seen used, several hair tones and so-called renewers, but never had any come to my notice that can ever compare with Parisian Sage. It leaves the hair clean, fluffy and silky, and does not leave one particle of stickiness."—Mrs. Ida Wilcox, hair dresser, Coldwater, Mich.

A Talk On An Oily Subject

Some interesting, inside facts, not generally known.

"PURE" is usually supposed to denote the highest quality of OLIVE OIL, but such is by no means always true. Without exception the Olive Oil offered here is the second and more often the third pressing—which though pure, is very much inferior to the first expressed.

The best article obtainable in this market is the California product—THE ESIMAR BRAND. This oil is obtained entirely from the first pressing of the fruit, and is not only strictly pure but of the very highest medicinal quality and also very palatable.

At all stores where the price usually is $1.00 per gallon, we sell it at $0.75 per gallon.

SYNOPSIS PRECEDING CHAPTERS

Chapter I—In the studio of Karl Mahler, a young painter, Olga Hoffman, for six years the wife of Banker Herman Hoffman, feels stirring again her girlish love for Karl. At her husband's request, Karl is to paint her portrait. Suddenly rising from an armchair, a mysterious, repellent, yet fascinating stranger appears before Olga. He seems to her the incarnation of evil, and she flees.

Chapter II—Karl seems to have outgrown his boyish passion for Olga. After the sitting for the portrait, on the same evening, Karl is to meet at Olga's reception a young girl, Elsa, whom Olga has in mind as a bride for the young painter.

Chapter III—Karl is oppressed by the feeling that an unseen presence occupies his armchair. His model, Mimi, to whom he has made love lightly and who loves him, reproaches him for neglecting her in view of his approaching engagement.

Chapter IV—Left in the studio with Karl for the sitting, Olga tells the artist that she has fought for six years against going there. She is overwhelmed with a sense of terror.

Chapter V—Despite the earnest efforts of Olga and Karl the past uses As she takes off her waist in the dressing room preparatory to donning a shawl in which to sit, the mysterious stranger appears.

Chapter VI—The stranger calls himself Dr. Miller. He recalls to Karl a meeting at Monte Carlo, where his gold enabled the artist to win. He seems to bring to the surface of the young woman and the artist their unavailing passion. Olga, dismayed, rushes into the outer studio.

CHAPTER VII

Karl threw himself into a chair as Olga fled into the outer studio and sat there, not looking at his unwelcome visitor. Dr. Miller seemed to find his dejection amusing. He allowed the silence to remain undisturbed while he puffed a cigarette. Then he said, half to himself, half to Karl:

"Full of temperance, that woman, and pretty, too, extremely pretty."

"Yes, she is pretty," Karl acquiesced without looking at him.

"It's a pity she doesn't love her husband," was the next cynical remark that fell on Karl's ears.

He wheeled in his seat and looked at the visitor, who went on with perfect composure:

"How do I know? It was apparent when she fancied I had insulted her and turned to you for protection."

Karl angrily slammed down an ash tray he had picked up in his nervous fingers and began to pace the floor.

"She went on in a light tone: 'She does not love her husband. He must be a genius or a very common-place man. Marriage always is a failure with such men. Common men live so that women are afraid some day they shall find their lives at night through a cellar window. Genius—well, genius lives on the top floor, up toward the clouds, and with so many gloomy steps to climb, and no elevator, it's very uncomfortable for a pretty woman. Her ideal is one easy flight of stairs to comfortable living rooms on the first floor.'"

Karl maintained silence and continued to walk the floor. He looked at his watch and started toward the door of the reception room leading into the hall, which was locked.

"This is the second time I have seen madame's shoulders," Miller remarked casually, blowing cigarette rings in the air.

"What do you mean?" Karl demanded, stung to speech by jealousy.

"Ah, I saw them first in Paris, at the Louvre, fashioned of snow white marble. They were the shoulders of Venus. Am I right, Karl?"

"I don't know," the artist snapped.

"Well, you must take my word for it then," Miller said lightly. "I have seen both. And since Alcmena I have known but one sculptor who could form such wonderful shoulders."

"Who?" Karl asked, turning to him.

"Prosperity," Miller replied sententiously. "Such tender, soft, exquisite curves are possible only to women who live perfectly. Madame must be the wife of a millionaire."

Karl fell to pacing the floor again, glancing impatiently at the door through which Olga had fled.

"Is she dressing?" asked Miller slyly.

"Yes," Karl answered nervously.

"Is there a mirror in your studio?"

"Yes."

"Madame must be very respectable," Miller said in an insinuating tone.

"She takes so long to dress."

"Your remarks are in very bad taste," Karl cried angrily, walking up threateningly to his visitor.

Miller stood erect, without changing his expression of ironical amusement, and said:

"Do you wish to offend me?"

"Yes," Karl snarled.

"Then you, too, must be respectable," the visitor said coolly, adding, as Karl looked at him with wonder, "In a situation like this only a very respectable man could behave with such infernal stupidity."

Karl was about to retort when the studio door opened and Olga entered. He turned quickly toward her, and she went to him without noticing Miller.

"What time is it?" she asked.

"Your husband will be here in ten minutes," Miller interposed.

Olga turned toward him and cried accusingly:

"Then you were not asleep in that chair when my husband was here. You heard him say when he would return."

"Madame is mistaken. Feminine presentiment always feels the approach of the husband ten minutes ahead of time. Were it not for those ten minutes there would be fewer locked doors."

As he spoke he walked over and unlocked the door leading into the hall, then turned and looked at them calmly.

"Is this never to finish?" Olga asked.

"I tried to change the subject, but Karl would not let me," Miller answered.

"I have not spoken a word," Karl protested.

"By your actions, Karl; by the way you jumped up, impatiently consulted your watch, rushed to the door. Poor chap, he was afraid," he added to Olga.

"Afraid!" Karl exclaimed.

"Yes, afraid that your husband would come before you finished dressing. And you were right, Karl."

"Why, my dear Olga?" Karl began impatiently, when the other interrupted him.

"Please, please, let us be logical," he urged. "Look at the situation. The husband enters suddenly. Well, here I am, back again, my darling," he announces. "Where is the picture? I must see the picture. There is none. Karl did not work on the picture. Your husband is worried. He does not speak, but he is irritated. He wants to speak, and the words stick in his throat. You look at each other, unhappy. Nothing has happened, but the mischief is done. What mischief? Appearances. Whatever you say makes matters worse, and a compromising situation like this is never forgotten by the husband. You go home together in silence."

"Ah, if it were like that!" Karl broke in. "But we are not alone. You are here."

Miller shrugged his shoulders.

"Ah, that is it! I am here, and with one word I could dispel the illusion," he acquiesced. "But I know myself. I am cursed with a peculiar, sinister sense of humor, and I am afraid I would not say the word; hence when the husband enters we are all silent. Then I say, 'I regret to have arrived at such an inopportune moment.' I take my hat and walk out, leaving you, madame, your husband and Karl."

He seemed to find keen pleasure in the possibility of forcing the two into a position which would cause them suffering and weaken the barriers of self control they had built up around that boy and girl love that had come back so vividly to both. Had they regarded him as merely human it is certain that Karl would have kicked this cynical being out of the studio with his infernal innuendoes. But there was something supernatural about him. He dominated both the artist and the wife, and they were completely under his spell, struggle as they would to break it. Olga shrank from the cruelty of their tormentor.

"If this is a jest it is a cruel one," she cried.

"True, madame. But there is another way. If you wish it I can be quite truthful. Should your husband arrive I can tell him the portrait has not been touched and ask his pardon."

"Pardon for what?"

"For having seen your shoulders."

"This is a trap," Olga cried, turning toward Karl for protection. "What do you want? You overwhelm me with false insinuations. I hardly know you five minutes, and I imagine I feel your long fingers at my throat."

"Other pretty women do not feel them quite so soon," he murmured, bending toward her.

Enraged at the attitude of the man, Karl stepped toward him.

"Stop! I won't allow any more of this," he commanded.

The entrance of Heinrich checked his speech. The old servant said:

"The tailor has sent some evening clothes, M. Karl, but they are not yours."

"They are mine," interrupted the stranger.

"Yours?" Karl said in amazement.

"Yes. They were crushed in my trunk," the other said coolly. "I told the tailor to press them and send them here for the evening. I must dress, as I am invited to the ball of one of the most beautiful women in the city tonight at the residence of the Duke of Marance."

"But the duke is not living there any more," Olga interposed. "He is in Madrid."

"Yes, I know that. I met the duke in Paris."

"He has sold his house to us. We are living there now, and the ball is given by me," she went on.

The man looked at her, his black eyes seeming to burn through her own. Shrinking, fearful, fascinated, Olga was held in the spell of those eyes.

"Was I mistaken? Am I not invited?" he asked.

"Yes, you are invited," she faltered.

She could not resist the subtle influence of the man, even when every instinct of good made her recoil from him. With a triumphant smile he bowed and said softly:

"Madame, a little while ago you asked me what I wanted. It was your invitation that I wanted. I thank you."

"But my husband," Olga said, already repenting of the advantage she had given him.

"Oh, he will be delighted to see me," the stranger assured her confidently.

"He speculates in wheat. I have information that will be of value to him. The crop has turned out worse than was expected. You love your husband. You should be happy that the wheat crop is bad."

"I am," Olga assented. "We want wheat to be bad because the price will go up."

"Your husband will make another fortune, and you will have the new gown you want."

"How do you know I want a new gown?" Olga asked, falling in once more with the devil's humor of the man.

"I observe that you have a new hat and a pretty one. Surely you want a new gown."

"You must be married."

"Married! Not I," he exclaimed. "A wife is like a monocle. It looks well, but one sees more clearly without it."

"Your views seem against marriage. Why?" Olga asked.

The tone of Miller became suddenly serious as he said:

"You want Karl to marry. I want to prevent him from marrying."

"Please let's not discuss that," Karl protested.

"Pardon me, Karl, but an artist should not marry," he went on. "Your future wife will swear to stand by your side for life—until the wedding day—and the day after she will be in your way."

"Not the true wife," Olga declared.

"Ah, but the true wife is always the other fellow's wife," he answered.

Miller had talked so absorbingly that Karl and Olga unconsciously drew near to each other. They stood in front of the high pulpit back of the armchair, each one resting a hand on the chair back. Although they were quite unaware of it, their position suggested that of a young couple before the altar about to be joined in wedlock. The cynical humor of the situation struck Miller, who walked around them, stood in the chair and leaned over the back, like a preacher in his pulpit.

"You are a pessimist," Olga declared, looking up at him.

"No, not a pessimist; only practical."

"I agree with you," Karl said. "A man should stay at home."

Miller leaned down, placing his hands over Karl's and Olga's as they rested on the back of the chair. Looking at Karl, he said:

"Why didn't you stay at home? You ran away to become an artist. You refused a professional position and ordinary morals, a decent occupation at so much a week. You wanted to go out and seek the golden fleece of fame. Now fight your battle; fight it alone; don't get married."

As he spoke he lifted the hands of Karl and Olga and placed them together, holding them clasped in his own. They thrilled at each other's touch; they looked into each other's eyes; and they hardly heard the cynical devil's voice as Miller leaned yet farther toward them and said:

"I was thinking what a splendid couple you two would make."

PLEASANT SURPRISE.
The members and friends of Holy Trinity Lutheran church and the members of the Dorcas society perpetrated a surprise on their pastor, Rev. C. C. Roof. Thursday night as the domine sat in his study waiting for the coming of his council the people gathered in a near-by home. In due time they came with the rest of the company. There was no business session of the council, instead, the company spent the evening in conversation and enjoying the complete surprise of the pastor. Soon the Rev. H. C. Stuckenberg stepped forward at the request of the Dorcas society, and in a few well-chosen words on behalf of the society and congregation, presented the pastor a handsome leather rocker. The pastor responded, expressing his thanks.

The short time spent with the pastor and people last night showed the devotion of the people to their church and very high appreciation of their beloved pastor.

Mrs. Benson, who occupies a part of the parsonage, opened her home to the guests. Light refreshments were served, and friends departed at a late hour, feeling but one regret, namely, that they must leave their young leader "alone in his glory."

ONLY A FEW WEEKS UNTIL XMAS

Don't miss this opportunity to buy your Xmas gifts at your own price.

Our mammoth stock offers a world of ideas for appropriate Xmas gifts.

Our Reasons for This Big Sale

Altho we have been in business in Newark for 14 years, we have never conducted an auction sale, and in view of this fact we feel called upon to give reasons for this radical departure from our established business methods.

We find that we are heavily overstocked and more goods are soon to arrive for the approaching Holiday season. There are two things we must have at once: More room for the goods coming in and money to pay for those goods and other bills now due. The situation demands quick action—we must raise cash at once and the quickest way to do it is to put our entire stock on sale at auction.

This Auction Sale will be conducted with the same regard for fair and honest dealing that has characterized the business of this firm for the past 14 years—it's simply a case of "raise money quickly" and is not a money-making sale in any sense. Our misfortune is your opportunity.
